Music: Music in black on red 4-line staves.

Notes: The scribe, "Hankok," signed his name on f. 89v. A "Frater J. Hancok" copied Dublin, Trinity College, D.4.4 (424), treatises on grammar and rhetoric; although that manuscript is mainly in an anglicana script, the textura of its headings appears to be in the same hand as HM 30986, perhaps in more haste. Corrector's marks in lead at the end of each quire, near the catchword. Inserted leaves, ff. 65-67 and 72-74, 264 x 180 (184 x 120) mm., constituted the 3 outer bifolia of a quire, now folded in the reverse of their original position: quire and leaf signatures on ff. 73, 74 composed of a letter (cropped) and roman numerals, ii and iii. Catchword on f. 67v in a frame touched in red. 21 long lines ruled in lead. Note on addition from another manuscript: The 3 outer bifolia of a quire (lacking central bifolium) from another manuscript, folded backwards so that leaves 1-3 (ff. 72-74) now follow leaves 6-8 (ff. 65-67); they have been placed here so that the text on ff. 65-67v may remedy the deficiency between ff. 64 and 68 of the main manuscript; the text on ff. 72-74v is superfluous (repeating what is on ff. 59-62v) and was evidently only retained for a more secure binding of the conjunct leaves.
